

You may have heard about the community-wide re-branding initiative undertaken by the Quad Cities human services partnership. HuSP (Human Service Partners*) is the result of the planning phase begun 18 months ago.

The initiative was reviewed last month by a select pilot group that provided further insight and feedback. Now, we invite you to join this re-branding effort for the non-profit human service sector.

We need you and your organization as part of this campaign!

Our success in creating an accurate and complete picture of human services and its impact on the community is dependent on strong participation from all that comprise this network of professionals in the Quad Cities.

Please plan on attending. Your participation is vital!
